SĀYAṆA'S SUBHĀṢITA-SUDHĀNIDHI AND SŪRYAPAṆḌITA'S SUBHĀṢITARATNAHĀRA

By L. STERNBACH*

I. Identity of Sāyaṇa's Subhāṣita-sudhānidhi with Sūryapaṇḍita's Sūktiratnahāra[1]

1. In 1968, Dr. K. Krishnamoorthy, Professor and Head of the Department of Sanskrit, Karnatak University, Dharwar, published a Sanskrit Anthology called Subhāṣita-sudhā-nidhi by Sāyaṇa (Karnatak University, Dharwar, 1968), which he placed in the first half of the fourteenth century A.D., since it contains an eulogy of Kampaṇa who most likely died in 1455 A.D.

Dr. K. Krishnamoorthy ends his introduction with the following paragraph: "Among the later writers (sic!) who are indebted to this work (i.e. SSSN) very much, Sūryapaṇḍita, author of Subhāṣitaratnāhāra (published in the Trivandrum Sanskrit Series) deserves first mention......" That is the only mention of SRHt. in Dr. K. Krishnamoorthy's Preface and Introduction.

2. I venture to suggest that the two works, i.e., Sāyaṇa's Subhāṣita-sudhānidhi and Sūryapaṇḍita's Subhāṣitaratnahāra are one and the same work. Both are from the first half of the fourteenth century[2] and the author of this anthology may well be Sāyaṇa, since it is unlikely that Sūrya Kāliṅgarāya i.e. the Asādhārana mantrin of King Kulaśekhara (subordinate of the Pāṇḍya king Mārarvarman Kulaśekhara I who reigned between 1268 and 1308) could have been the real compiler of SRHt.

2.1. The arrangement of the two works is identical; both are divided into four parva-s i.e. dharma—, artha—, kāma— and mokṣa-parva-s, each devoted to one puruṣārtha; the paddhati-s, into which both works are divided, are almost the same (i.e. their titles and contents), although their order is often different.

2.2 In SRHt. the paddhati-s run consecutively from 1—202 (divided into: dharma 1—37; artha 38—181; kāma 182—195; and mokṣa 196—202) while in SSSN. they begin in each parva from 1 (dharma 1—35; artha 1—137; kāma 1—47; mokṣa 1—15). In both anthologies the paddhati-s deal mostly first with the positive side of a subject and then with the negative side of the same subject (e.g. SSSN. 1.10 and SRHt. 8 deal with dharma and SSSN. 1. 11 and SRHt 9 with adharma or with dāna and adāna, or with bhrātṛ, sad-bhrātṛ and asad-bhrātṛ). The titles of the paddhati-s are, as a rule, identical, though sometimes either SRHt. or SSSN. gives a longer description to the same title, e.g., satya-paddhati and satya-praśaṁsā-paddhati; sometimes synonyms are used i.e. we find in SSSN. (2.109) the aśva-paddhati and in SRHt. (97) the turaga-praśaṁsā-paddhati.

2.3 The contents of the various paddhati-s, particularly of the longest parva-s, the artha-parva and partly the dharma-parva, are almost identical; only the kāma-parva of SSSN. (beginning from SSSN. 13) is much longer[3] than the kāma-parva of SRHt. and several paddhati-s though bear the same titles contain quite different subhāṣita-s (see Annex II).

2.3.1. SRHt. transferred two paddhati-s dealing with veśyā-s (veśyā-praśaṁsā-) (113=SSSN. 3.2) and veśyā-nindā-paddhati (114= SSSN. 3.3) to the artha-parva while in SSSN. they are more properly included in the kāma-parva. Also SSSN. transferred one paddhati, i.e. the kāvya-praśaṁsā-paddhati from the dharma-parva to the artha-parva, where it is better suited (viz. SSSN. 2.52=SRHt. 30).

2.3.2. It is evident from Annex I which paddhati-s are identical or almost identical in both anthologies.[4] The identity of both

3. On the other hand the paddhati-s of the dharma-parva of SRHt., identical with the paddhati-s of the dharma-parva of SSSN. are longer, but SSSN. contains in the dharma-parva some paddhati-s not included in SRHt.

4. Very seldom SSSN. combines two paddhati-s of SRHt. in one and mixes up subhasita-s of both paddhati-s in one; e.g. SSSN. 20 (strinindapa°) combines SRHt. 53 (strīvyasa—°) and 54 (strīnindā-paddhati); or combines two paddhati-s these anthologies does not mean, however, that the readings are exactly the same (although the variants are usually of no great importance), or that the order of the subhāṣita-s is exactly the same. Generally, both anthologies use the same subhāṣita-s in the appropriate paddhati-s, change somewhat their order, leave out some and add other similar ones, particularly at the end of the paddhati-s which prove on the one side that the main source was the same, and on the other that the compilers have shown some individuality in their compilatory work. Particularly in SRHt. the compiler added at the end of the paddhati-s numerous prākṛta-subhāṣita-s, while the compiler of SSSN. added prākṛta-subhāṣita-s seldom.

2.1. Additions by the compiler of SSSN. of some subhāṣita-s (not found in the appropriate paddhati-s of SRHt. and often found in other paddhati-s of the latter work) were made unnecessarily, without proper reflection and without knowing his own text well; that seems to show that the compiler of SSSN. was posterior to the compiler of SRHt. And so, we find in SSSN. several subhāṣita-s quoted in two different places—two different paddhati-s, though they belong properly in one paddhati only and were unnecessarily quoted for the second time in another paddhati. (E.g. SSSN. 1.2.5 and 2.52.1=SRHt. 30.1 should have been quoted only once in 2.52.1; SSSN. 2.35. 88—89 and 2.63.12; 15 =SRHt. 82.15; 15 should have been quoted only once in 2.63.12 and 2.63.14 respectively; SSSN. 2.35.90 and 2.64.11=SRHt. 23.11 should have been quoted only once in 2.64.11; SSSN. 2.11.7 and 2.35.77=SRHt. 157.99 should have been quoted only once in 2.35.77; SSSN. 2.121.6 and 3.11.6= SRHt. 168.8 should have been quoted only once in 2.121.6; SSSN. 2.132.8 and 2.130.18=SRHt. 174.8 should have been quoted only into two other paddhati-s e.g. SSSN. 2.67 (=SRHt. 87) (both mantradeśa-) and SSSN. 68 (=SRHt. 86) (mantrakāla-paddhati); or divides one paddhati of SRHt. into two (SSSN. 2. 131 and 131 a.) āśā— and tṛṣṇā— (=SRHt. 175) tṛṣṇā-nindā-paddhati.

SRHt. has two paddhati-s called daṇḍanīti (73 and 131). Probably the first of these paddhati-s is a later addition; SRHt.'s 131 paddhati equals SSSN. 2.72, while SRHt. 73 has no corresponding paddhati in SSSN. and none of the subhāṣita-s included in this paddhati of SRHt. are found in SSSN; SRHt. ascribes the 12 subhāṣita-s of this paddhati to Manu. Mahābhārata, Kauṭilya. Rāmāyaṇa. Viṣṇu-purāṇa and Kamandaki. SRHt. (67) and SSSN. (26) have also a common paddhati called daṇḍapāruṣya-paddhati composed in majority of MBh.'s verses. Cf. footnote 7 below.

once in 2.132.8; SSSN. 2.137.24 and 1.14.13=SRHt. 181.30 should have been quoted only once in 2.137.24; SSSN. 2.137.9 and 2.4.32= SRHt. 181.54 should have been quoted only once in 2.137.39).

2.5. That the text of SSSN. and SRHt. are identical and that the compiler of SSSN. did not choose independently the material from primary sources but from SRHt.[5] is evident from the fact that if different readings occur in the primary source and in SSSN. the readings adopted in SSSN. are identical with those of SRHt. and not with those of the original source.[6]

2.6. That the texts of both anthologies are identical can also be seen, for instance from the fact that both contain several verses composed in six pāda-s, which is rather a rare occurrence, since almost all subhāṣita-saṁgraha-s contain only subhāṣita-s composed in four pāda-s. The only MS available to the editor of SRHt. had in the 49th paddhati a penultimate verse composed in six pāda-s; therefore, when quoting it he rightly marked the first four pāda-s of it as 49.5 and the next two pāda-s as 49.6 with dots (inferring the loss of the next two pāda-s). The MSS. used for the edition of SSSN. had in the same place also a verse composed of six pāda-s which the editor marked as one (2.22.5).

2.6.1. Also subhāṣita-s composed in six pāda-s occur for instance in SSSN. 2.26.3=SRHt. 67.4+ab of 67.5;[7] SSSN. 2.36.2= SRHt.+158.3–158.3½;[8] SSSN. 2.38.10=SRHt. 159.11+11½: SSSN. 2.42.6=SRHt. 154.4+ab of an unmarked next half-verse;

and SSSN. 2.64.9=SRHt. 83.8½+83.9.[9] Also in SSSN. a verse composed in six pāda-s occurs in 2.102.3. This is a corrupt text of KN. The first three subhāṣita-s (and in SRHt., the first four of the 92nd paddhati) were taken from KN. in the following manner:

SRHt. 92	SSSN. 2.102	KN (ĀNSS.)
1 ab/cd	1 ab/cd	4.48 ab/cd
2 ab/cd	2 ab/cd	4.50 ab/cd

4 ab	3 cd	4.53 cd
4 cd	3 ef	4.54 ab

In this instance the text of SSSN. is incomplete.

2.6.2. Another example of six-pāda verses occur in SSSN. 2.86.7 and 11 (in the group 2.86.2 to 11=SRHt. 145.2 to 13). This group of verses was borrowed from MBh. in the following manner:

SRHt. 145	SSSN. 2.86	MBH (Bh)
145.2 ab/cd	2.86.2 ab/cd	12.69.33 ab/cd

83.8 ½	2.64.9 ab	12.94.17 cd
83.9 ab/cd	2.64.9 cd/ef

In SSSN. SRHt. 83. 8½ has been wrongly combined with SRHt. 83.9 as SSSN. 2.64.9.

145.9 ab	2.86.7 cf	12.69.46 cd
145.9 cd	2.86.8 ab	12.69.49 ab

145.13 cd	2.86.11 ef	12.129.14 cd

On the contrary, here SSSN. follows more closely the primary source (i.e. MBh) than SRHt. (SSSN. 2.86.2; 2.86.9; 2.86.10) with the exception however of the second six-pāda verse (2.86.11) which wrongly combines MBh (Bh) 15.11.19 ab with 12.129.14 ab. It would have been better to have 2.86.10 (and not 2.86.11) as a six-pāda verse, or to divide this paddhati into 12 verses in the same manner as SRHt. did.

2.6.3. Where SSSN. does not follow the SRHt. text and mixes up some verses, the work of the compiler of SSSN. is rather sloppy. That is, for instance, the case of SSSN. 2.82.6 to 11. The division is there as follows:

SRHt. 141	SSSN.2.82	MBh (Bh)
141.6 ab/cd	2.82.6	12.101.9 cd + 10 ab
141.7 ab	2.82.9 cd	12.101.10 cd
141.7 cd	2.82.10 ab
141.8 ab	2.82.10 cd
141.8 cd	2.82.7 ab
141.9 ab	2.82.7 cd
141.9 cd	2.82.8 ab
141.10 ab	2.82.8 cd
141.10 cd	2.82.9 ab
141.11 ab/cd	2.82.11 ab/cd	12.138.61 ab/cd

In SSSN. the MBh verse (MBh (Bh) 12.101.10) was wrongly divided by SSSN. 2.82.10, 7, 8 and 9 ab into two parts.

2.6.4. Better was the division of SSSN. 2.66.10 to 14 and 42.1 to 2 (=SRHt. 85.11 to 14½ and 197.2 to 3½); the division is there as follows:

SRHt. 85	SSSN. 2.66	MBh (Bh)
85.11 ab/cd	2.66.10 ab/cd	5.33.44 ab/cd
missing	2.66.11 ab
85.12 ab	2.66.11 cd
85.12 cd	2.66.12 ab	5.38.18 ab
85.13 ab	2.66.12 cd	5.38.18 cd
85.13 cd	2.66.13 ab
85.14 ab	2.66.13 cd
85.14 cd	2.66.14 ab
85.14½	2.66.14 cd

and:

SRHt. 197	SSSN. 4.2
197.2 cd	4.2.1 ab
197.3 ab	4.2.1 cd
197.3 cd	4.2.2. ab
197.3½	4.2.2 cd.

2.6.5. In three places SSSN. changes the order of the pāda-s in the subhāṣita-s of SRHt. (i.e. SRHt. 124.14=SSSN. 2.129.2 cd/ab; SRHt. 168.10=SSSN. 2.121.8 cd/ab; and SRHt. 181.14=SSSN. 2.137.14 cd/ab).

3. SSSN., when omitting some subhāṣita-s from the text used in SRHt., had, no doubt, the primary source, i.e. the original of the subhāṣita-s not before his eyes and probably did not even know the original source. In this connexion it is worth noting that some Kauṭilya's quotations were omitted e.g. K(K) 1.10.18; 9.4, 26; 12.1.32; 14.3.88; and 2.12.37 (from SSSN. 2.35.15 to 20 and 42-43; and 2.98.4 to 5=SRHt. 156.17, 23, 50, 51 and 90.5). Was this due to the intentional oblivion of Kauṭilya's Arthaśāstra?[10]

10. Cf. JAOS 88. 3; p. 496.

4.1. Annex I (Comparison of the paddhati-s in SRHt. and SSSN.) shows the close similarity, or rather sameness, of the titles and topics of the paddhati-s in both anthologies with short remarks as to the identity or similarity of their contents.

4.2. Annex II (Comparison of the subhāṣita-s contained in SSSN. and SRHt.) is a verse by verse comparison of the subhāṣita-s of both anthologies; it shows the manner in which the two anthologies included the same subhāṣita-s in the appropriate paddhati-s. Verses marked with an asterisk (*) denote subhāṣita-s written in Prākṛt.

4.3. It seems that these two annexes will dispel any doubts as to the identity of SSSN. and SRHt.

5. SRHt. is more complete and superior to SSSN., since it ascribes most of its verses to primary sources. Although the names of the sources from which the extracts are given are sometimes not correct, —an occurrence very often noticed in Sanskrit subhāṣita-saṁgraha-s, —the ascriptions are in general correct. This shows that the compiler of SRHt. in most cases either extracted subhāṣita-s directly from the primary sources, or knew the primary sources by heart and quoted them knowing, or thinking of knowing, their origin. That was not the case with the compiler of SSSN. who either recopied a text of SRHt. (which did not contain the names of the sources from which the extracts were made), or purposely omitted the source-material. That seems to show that SRHt. (but not the printed text of SRHt.) is original and SSSN. a copy of SRHt. with various additions and omissions. However that is only a hypothesis and no real proof can be adduced for this assumption.

II. Source-material of Sāyaṇa's Subhāṣita-sudhānidhi

6. Dr. K. Krishnamoorthy in his Preface to SSSN. stated: "Unlike other anthologies, neither Sāyaṇa, nor his anonymous Saṅgrahakāra has bothered to indicate the names of the sources from which the verses have been taken. In the nature of things this editor has to content himself with tracing only a few of them to their sources (sic !)[11] (p. III). Later, in the Introduction he wrote: "If we compare this collection with those of Śārṅgadhara, Vallabhadeva, Śrīdharadāsa, etc. we will notice that the material included here is mostly new (sic !) and not more than a dozen out of a hundred can be found in any other collection (sic !)." (p. 16). The statement of the editor is wrong. Dr. K. Krishnamoorthy knew that SSSN. is similar to SRHt. (see para 1 above) and when marking sometimes in the footnotes the original sources of the subhāṣita-s quoted in SSSN. indiscriminately used the ascriptions from SRHt., although he did not admit it.

7. Ludo Rocher, Professor at the University of Pennsylvania, when reviewing SSSN. (in JAOS 90.2: p. 410) wrote: "....few indications are limited to very general indications such as 'Mahābhārata', 'Rāmāyaṇa', 'Kālidāsa', etc.[11] which are not terribly helpful. It is surprising that the editor has abstained even from comparing with Böhtlingk's Indische Sprüche and Sternbach's useful Supplement to O. Böhtlingk's Indische Sprüche (not to mention many other excellent contributions by Dr. Sternbach in this field). A sample of 150 consecutive Sprüche and the corresponding section of the Supplement allowed us to identify 10 stanzas of the Sudhānidhi; assuming that the ratio remains unchanged throughout, the Sprüche contain about 500 stanzas of the Sudhānidhi, i.e. more than one fifth of the entire text."

8. L. Rocher was completely correct in his assumption that a great part of SSSN.'s subhāṣia-s (and not as K. Krishnamoorthy wrote "not more than a dozen of a hundred can be found in any other collection") can be identified and their source found; he did not even realize the extent to which the subhāṣita-s of SSSN. can be identified.

8.1. This author has tried his hand to identify only those subhāṣita-s which begin with the letter अ. Here are the results of his investigation.

8.2. There are in SSSN. 283 subhāṣita-s beginning with the letter अ, of which it was possible to identify 234 subhāṣita-s, or nearly 90 per cent; of these 238 subhāṣita-s—199 (or over 90 per cent) are also quoted in SRHt.

11. These indications were recopied by the editor from SRHt. (see above para. 6).

8.3. Annex III shows clearly which subhāṣita-s of SSSN. beginning with the letter अ are found in primary and secondary sources. In the first column (marked SSSN.) the pratīka of the SSSN. subhāṣita is quoted with an indication where it occurs (page and verse) and whether it is ascribed to any source or not by the editor of SSSN. In the second column the primary source (s) from which the SSSN. subhāṣita was taken is given and in the third column the secondary source (s) in which the SSSN. subhāṣita also occurs are given. In the last column ascriptions in the secondary source (s) are quoted and remarks as to the SSSN. text.

9. The primary sources from which the SSSN.'s subhāṣita-s were taken are primarily the Mahābhārata, the Rāmāyaṇa, so-called Cāṇakya's collections of aphorisms, the Pañcatantra, the Hitopadeśa, Kāmandakīya Nītisāra, Bhāravi's Kirātārjunīya, the Mānavadharmaśāstra, the Vikramacarita, Bhartṛhari's Śataka-s, Mānasollāsa, the Amaruśataka, the Vetālapañcaviṁśatikā, the Śiśupālavadha, the Bhojaprabandha, the Mudrārākṣasa, even Kauṭilya's Arthaśāstra and many others.

9.1. In most cases, the readings of the subhāṣita-s are identical with those of SRHt. and, what is most revealing, follow the text of the SRHt., rather than the text of the primary source; that is a major argument for the assumption that SSSN. is indebted more to SRHt. than to the original sources and is not an original work; that is, for instance, the case of subhāṣita-s Nos. 4, 23, 57, 84, 85, 88, 91, 117, 118, 125, 127, (130), 132, 133, 138, 139, 142, 148; 167; 182, 188, 193, (195), 202, 205, 208, 210, 212, 217, 232 and 233. The readings of these subhāṣita-s are identical with the readings of SRHt., while the primary sources have different readings.

9.2. On the other hand, SSSN. contains sometimes new readings (subāṣita-s Nos. 2, 24, 34, 44, 59, 111, 114, 124, 126, 128, 131; 140, 141, 192, 223, 231 and 234) and fills in lacunae of SRHt. (subhāṣita-s Nos. 104 and 119).

9.3. As mentioned before, the editor of SSSN. follows almost without exception the ascriptions of subhāṣita-s given in SRHt.;[12] therefore he ascribes some verses to not often-quoted authors, such as Vallabhadeva (Nos. 8, 15, 48, 141,[13] 189), Śṛṅgāraprakāśa

12. See paras. 6 and 7.

13. This verse was ascribed only in SSSN to Vallabhadeva.

(No. 27), Ravigupta (No. 207), Sakalavidyādhara (No. 38), Sundarapāṇḍya, the author of the Nītidviṣaṣṭika (Nos. 83, 103), Pratāpacakravartī (No. 65), Pratāparudra (No. 113),[14] Kavivallabha (No. 192) and to Daṇḍanīti (No. 70).

9.4. Most often, following SRHt., the compiler of SSSN. ascribed subhāṣita-s to the Mahābhārata (Nos. 33, 52, 64, 96, 102, 110, 113, 126, 154, 162, 167, 169, 174, as well as to subhāṣita-s which were not found in the Mahābhārata: Nos. 85 (from K.), 172, 214 and 234 (from R.); Bhāravi's Kirātārjunīya: Nos. 26, 36, 78, 107, 132, 134, 135, 146,[15] 215, 218;[16] Kāmandakīya Nītisāra: Nos. 13, 75, 117, 125, 191,[17] 288, as well as No. 92 which was not found in Kir; the Pañcatantra: Nos. 130 and 225, as well as 140, 195 and 200 which were not found in P.; the Mānava-dharmaśāstra: Nos. 39,[18] 54, 89, 201,[19] as well as Nos. 91, 116 and 161 which were not found in Mn; the Bhallaṭa (śataka): Nos. 50, 93, 153, as well as No. 63 which was not found in the Bhallaṭaśataka; Kālidāsa: Nos. 41 and 164;[20] the Kalāvilāsa: Nos. 43, 103, as well as Nos. 197 and 217;[21] the Hitopadeśa: No. 109,[22] the Rāmāyaṇa: No. 170, as well as No. 68 which occurs only in Mn. and MBh.; Māgha: No. 6; Mammaṭa: No. 77; Bāṇa No. 22; the Mudrārākṣasa: No. 125; the Prabodhacandrodaya No. 94; and Bhartṛhari: Nos. 19, 160, but none of them appears in BhŚ. An original and correct ascription of the editor of SSSN. was of No. 25 (Kṛṣṇakarṇāmṛta).

9.5. On the other hand, SRHt. ascribes additionally a number of subhāṣita-s to different authors, but the editor of SSSN. did not even bother to ascribe them also to these authors. They are (numbers in italics denote that the subhāṣita could not be traced

14. In SRHt. this verse is ascribed to Kāmandaki, but the next verse is ascribed to Prataparudra. The editod of SSN. probably by error moved the ascription one verse up.

9.6. Annex III gives a clear picture of the findings of this author as to the source-material of the subhāṣita found in SSSN. beginning with the letter only.[23]
